The Guiteau Trial.

WANTS MONEY.

Washington, Dec. 1.—Guiteau's trial was resumed this morning. While in the witness box Guiteau asked to make a personal statement and addressed himself to the audience saying:

Two weeks ago I sent out an appeal for money. I did it on my own account and the day after Seville publicly announced that it was without his authority inviting my friends to send me money in the interest of the cause of justice. They can send $5, $10 or $25, or $1,000 if they wish. If they don't want to be known they can send without name to Seville.

Judge Porter then began a rapid fire of interrogatories eliciting from the prisoner in his replies that physically he was a coward and always kept away from personal danger; morally he was brave as a lion when he thought Deity was back of him; in his opinion the doctors killed the President; the acts of Jones and Mason in attempting to kill him were wrong and should be punished unless they can show they were inspired by Deity.

The witness showed signs of impatience and exultation, and striking his open hand upon the desk, emphasized every sentence uttered. Upon being pressed for answers he finally became obstinate and shouted to Judge Porter: "I know you well and I know bigger men than you are. I've seen you shake your finger at witnesses in New York, but you can't scare me."

Shortly after he was asked if he believed in the ten commandments, to which he replied in the affirmative.

"THOU SHALT NOT KILL."

Ought to read in his case "Thou shalt kill," said Judge Porter.

Guiteau became exceedingly violent and refused to discuss the matter at all. There was no murder in his case and no killing; it was simply the jury to determine whether or not his act in removing the President was inspired by Deity or not. It was all nonsense to split hairs any longer over that word. It must be distinctly understood that the act of Deity was the President was the act of Deity.

Witness proved decidedly obstinate, and after flatly contradicting the testimony of General Logan, Col. Reed and several other witnesses, he positively refused to answer several questions. His favorite response being: "I decline to discuss that with you. Witness seemed to be greatly annoyed at Judge Porter's habit of pointing his finger at him, as he frequently did in the way of emphasizing his questions, and again broke out angrily.

"YOU NEED NOT POINT YOUR LONG FINGER AT ME."

Mr. Judge Porter: I've seen you do that before, but you can't scare me."

Witness declined to go into the boarding house question as it had no bearing on the case. He supposed he owed $130 to various landladies.

Judge Cox then directed him to reply to questions.

He was readily driven from one position to another, until confronted with the evidence of his own witnesses, when he unhesitatingly pronounced their evidence false. Hence he emphasized the contradiction by saying: "Anything I say to you, Judge, is true. You can put that down as a fixed fact."

HOW TO BORROW MONEY.

Being pressed as to how he proposed to raise the funds which he said he was expecting to receive, the witness replied: "I intended to borrow it from some of my friends, and added, I will tell you, Judge, how I borrow money. It may be of service to you when you want to borrow for yourself. I don't lie nor sneak but go right up to a man and ask for what I want."

Witness was closely questioned about the purchase of his pistol and asked why he brought one with an ivory handle instead of a plain one, and replied: "Because I thought it was worth a dollar more."

Judge Porter—Did you not say it would look better in the Patent office.

Witness admitted he might have believed or thought the pistol would some time be in that department.

Shortly afterward Guiteau became very indignant at Judge Porter's use of words and shouted fiercely: "You seem to take delight in the use of the words

"KILL" and "MURDER."

These are the words of your whining in that way. The mere outward fact as to how I removed the President has no bearing on the case."

Guiteau's shrewdness in detecting and anticipating any point which might be made against him was a marked feature of the investigation. Judge Porter pressed him very closely to fix the day when he received his inspiration to "remove" the President and Guiteau finally shrieked out: "To remove all this loose talk I want you to know that I would have removed the President at any time between the middle of June and the second of July if I had found the opportunity. I would have done it for the good of the American people."

INGRATITUDE.

Guiteau was permitted to indulge his passion for talking upon the pending political situation at the time of the shooting until speaking of the President's ingratitude to Grant and Conkling, he was led by Judge Porter to admit that ingratitude was the basest of crimes.

Porter—Stop there? What would you have thought of your killing the President and then going to the President's Consulship instead of having refused it?

Guiteau said that Garfield was his warm personal and political friend, and that no personal motive was involved in the act.

Then coming some trap was being set for him, he hesitated a moment and with great emphasis said: "I would not have taken the Paris Consulship the first day of June if I had been appointed and had the President and Secretary Blaine both prayed on their knees for me to take it. I had at that time resolved to remove the President for the good of the American people."

WASHINGTON WRITINGS.

BELFORD CANARD.

Washington, December 1.—A report has been in circulation to the effect that Belford, of Colorado, would stand as a candidate of the Greenbackers, and make an attempt to hold the balance of power in the speakership contest. Belford has arrived and pronounced the story absolutely without foundation. He is announced by a friend, who is a member of the House, and professes to speak with authority as a Keifer man with a leaning to Kasson. The gentleman who gives the information had it in writing from Belford in reply to a letter asking his vote for himself.

THE PENNSYLVANIA DELEGATION.

To-morrow decides on the speakership question. If they decide in favor of Hiseock, and they probably will, it will mean the defeat of Keifer and West, and the latter will probably concentrate on Keifer or Kasson and win. Those gentlemen are trying hard to get the necessary support for that emergency.

ARTHUR WILL NOT EXPRESS A PREFERENCE.

The President refused to express an opinion on the speakership to a gentleman who was trying to convince him that Arthur would be a disastrous choice to him. Arthur said: "I want these discussions in the Republican party healed. There is no sense in keeping up factional fights and I regret to see a factional spirit obscuring the good men and elect him. I have nothing to say about the candidates."

HOLLAND HORRIBLY HUNG.

Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 1.—At 1 o'clock a mob of about fifty men surrounded the jail in Dardanelle, in which James P. Holland was confined, and demanded admittance, threatening, if refused, to tear the structure down. The jailer and guards surrendered without striking a blow, and the mob entered the prison and seized Holland, who was handcuffed and lying down. He sprang up and asked, "What do you want?"

"Your life," one of the mob answered.

Holland trembled violently, but prepared to resist to the death. The struggle which followed was very brief, the unfortunate prisoner being overpowered in a few moments. A rope was put around his neck, and he was then dragged into the jail yard, and a storm of oaths and jeers. The rope was flung over a beam and the unfortunate man hauled up, and his dead body left swinging in the wind.

Having completed their work the mob withdrew, crossing the river and disappearing in the vicinity of Russellville. It is thought they were the same gang that lynched Taylor, a murderer whose governor Churchill respited last month.

Holland was hanged on the same beam which the mob used when Taylor was executed. Holland was respectfully connected, and from his youth up had been a law-abiding citizen. A pious father. Needing money, he laid a plot with Wm. Casey and Chas. G. Helpheny to rob and murder a planter named Burgess Jones. Helpheny killed Jones and fled with the money. Casey was captured and hanged, and the plot, causing the arrest of Holland and Casey. The latter was twice sentenced to hang. During Holland's trial, Helpheny escaped, and shortly afterward Holland and Casey did likewise. They were captured recently in Tennessee. Helpheny is still at large. This is the third lynching which has disgraced Yell county in the past twelve months.

CRUEL CHRISTIANITY.

Washington, November 30.—In the Christiana divorce case this afternoon, the cross-examination of Mary F. Lugenebel, mother of Mrs. Christianity, was resumed. Being asked to relate some details of the alleged cruelty to his wife, witness testified that while she was visiting them in Lansing, Mich. Christianity knocked his wife down in the room. Some two days later witness spoke about the circumstance to Christianity, and he said that he was drunk when he did it, and it should not occur again. Christianity and his sons were drunk during the entire time she was at the house, and fighting between them was an every day occurrence. During the giving of witness testimony she was repeatedly prompted and corrected by her daughter, to which counsel for the plaintiff objected. This brought on a sharp colloquy, in which Mrs. Christianity asserted that her husband was drunk all the time, as was one of his sons. This declaration irritated the gentleman to whom she referred (Ingersoll), who demanded that the charge be made part of the record, and amid some excitement the session closed.

DEAD OF HEART DISEASE.

Sedalia, Mo., Dec. 1.—This morning, Alfred Williams, one of the most intelligent and well-known colored men in the city, was found dead in his bed. He had been to church on Sunday evening in perfect health, and went to his room about 9:30 o'clock. The coroner has not yet made a post-mortem examination. Though Williams had a magnificent physique and was the picture of vigor and health, it is believed that he died while asleep of heart disease.

A ROAD AGENT ROBBS A STAGE.

San Antonio, December 1.—The Lavera stage was robbed this morning about nine miles from this city, by one man on horseback. A negro driver and one passenger, a lady, were on board. The robbery was effected by cutting a bolt from behind. Mail was found scattered on the road and valuable packages were stolen. Officers are on the trail of the robber.

Considerable Confusion in a Colored Church.

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 1.—Quite an exciting scene occurred Monday night at 10 o'clock, at Avery Chapel, a colored church on Gayoso Street. The church was crowded, there being a congregation of near 500, who were listening to the inspiring words of a new minister, when all of a sudden a bench on which were seated several members of the church broke, with a crash, and a scene of confusion followed. Some one shouted the church was falling down, and in the rush made by the frightened people for the door a colored girl, named Annie Floyd, was trampled upon and received injuries that it is feared will prove fatal. Several others were bruised and otherwise injured. The minister made his escape by jumping out of the window of the church into the bayonet, a distance of about thirty feet. No less than forty others also made their escape in the same manner, and the church this morning presented the appearance of having been mobbed, since not a window glass or pane of glass unbroken can be seen.

BURNED TO DEATH.

Benicia, Cal., Dec. 1.—At 8 o'clock last evening at Port Costa, John Connelly, an Irishman aged about thirty-five years, and a stevedore by occupation, was burned to death. Deceased was in a state of intoxication and was put to bed at 7 o'clock by some of his friends in a small shanty. At 8 o'clock watchman observed a stream of fire issuing from a shanty, and instead of trying to extinguish the fire he ran to where help could be obtained, about a mile distant, and succeeded in procuring assistance, but it was too late as the fire had already consumed the shanty. The smoldering ruins and Connelly's body burned to a crisp. Deceased was single and had considerable money in the shanty. He was addicted to the use of strong drink. The fire is supposed to have originated from a lighted candle which was kept by his bedside.

OBSTREPEROUS CRANK.

Vicksburg, Miss., Dec. 1.—Danie Flynn, formerly of this city, but recently of Australia Landing, Miss., has suddenly become a crank of the most belligerent and precocious kind. On Sunday evening when the steamer Headlight landed at Australia Landing, Flynn armed himself and went aboard the boat for the purpose of wiping out the entire crew. The first man he met was the pilot, who struck the crank with a heavy stick, finally forcing him to decamp. He then went down stairs and fired upon a negro, the ball taking effect in the latter's leg. He continued his mad career to the rear of the cabin, seeking whom he might devour. He had just leveled his pistol at Captain Smith when some one in the rear struck Flynn on the back of the head with a hatchet, fracturing his skull and prostrating him for death.

EIDER-DOWN DUCKS.

The beautiful eider-down ducks which abound in this cold latitude are the sole property of the inhabitants. They are protected by the laws of Norway, so that no stray sportsman is allowed to shoot them. I learned the mode of procuring the down: When the duck is about to lay she plucks down from her own back, known as Idelvid. John Lahey, aged 22 years, and son of Patrick Lahey, was shot through the right lung, the ball passing nearly through the body. Mrs. Davis and James Carroll were the only occupants of the room at the time. Mrs. Davis and Carroll are both in the jail. Carroll had a revolver on his person with two chambers empty. Lahey made a dying statement this afternoon, in which he states that he was requested to go out of the room in which Mrs. Davis and Carroll were seated. He did so, but came back soon afterward when he was shot by either the woman or Carroll.

TO MARK THE SPOT WHERE GARFIELD WAS SHOT.

Washington, Dec. 1.—A marble tablet has been placed in the ladies waiting room of the B. & O. depot to mark the spot where President Garfield was shot. The tablets of American statuary marble and consists of a sill resting upon two cubs outside of which are two pillars, representing an axe and a fasces. The two draped flags form a canopy with the inscription, "James Abram Garfield, President of the United States, shot July 2d, 1881." The whole is surmounted by an eagle, with outstretched wings, holding in its talons a bundle of roses and laurel leaves.

WOMAN AT THE BOTTOM OF IT.

Batavia, O., Dec. 1.—Last evening about 10 o'clock John Chene shot and mortally wounded Billy Crab in the streets of Utopia, a village situated in the Southern part of this (Clermont) county, about twelve miles above New Richmond, on the Ohio river. This is the third murder in that vicinity during the past year. Both of the parties are young men, and the origin of the difficulty, as reported, was a woman. The murdered man was shot in the head, the ball passing entirely through the brain. Chene was captured and will be brought to the county jail.

Who Foils the Tariff Bills.

About thirty-five years ago when the writer was fifteen years of age he made the following comparison: His father was a mechanic. In the family were the father and mother and eleven children. The father, mother, an older brother and the writer supported themselves and nine younger members of the family. The gross earnings of the four productive members of the family were about $800. Since everything was purchased for the support of the family about $500 was paid out for articles the price of which was affected by the tariff. On some articles the tariff was fifty per cent. on some as low as ten per cent. A low average would be twenty per cent. It appeared to the writer that his father's family paid $100 to the support of the National government; that the four productive members of the family paid $100, or $25 apiece to the National Government, besides supporting themselves and the nine non-producing members of the family. In the same town was a State senator. He was worth, in real estate and money, about $30,000. His family consisted of the father and mother, two sons, who were men, and one young daughter. One son assisted his father in his legal business, the other was a teacher. The gross income of the family was at least $3,500. I heard him say that he bought about $240 worth of articles, each year on which there was duty. It appeared to the writer that the senator's family paid $30 to the national government, or that the four productive members paid $12.50 and supported themselves and one non-producing member of the family. The writer made these comparisons: Our family, without one dollar of property, except household stuff and clothing, pay $100 national tax. Senator B.'s, with $30,000, pay $30. Each productive member of our family supports himself and two and one-quarter helpless persons and has no property to help in doing it, and pays $5 national tax. Each productive member of Senator B.'s family supports himself and one-fourth of a helpless person, has the fourth of the income of $30,000 to help him do it, and pays $12.50 national tax. Is such taxation just and equal? Did the fact that in our family there were nine helpless persons render it our duty to pay twice the tax? Did the fact that we had no property and Senator B. had $30,000 make it our duty to pay twice the tax? Is such taxation just and equal? I remember another incident. A prosperous neighbor, who was a high-tariff man, was discussing the question with my father, a free-trader. Father had just purchased a dress suit. He took a pencil and paper and handed Mr. S. the following statement:

Cost of cloth in England.....$10

Tariff, fifty per cent.....5

Importer's expense and profit.....4

Total.....$19

"Now," said he, "I had to pay $8 tariff on that suit. I could have got it for $3 with no tariff. I had to pay $28 for it. I can see easily what the tariff cost me on that suit. Now, you will set down a like bill of benefits and show me where the tariff returns me $8 or even eight cents." Mr. S. began to talk of protection to home industry, home trade, home market, higher prices for home products, and "higher wages, and increased prosperity, etc."

"Mr. S.," said father, "set down what each item would be without tariff, what it is now under tariff, show the amount each is increased, prove your figures to be facts, not fancies—that they are as undeniable as mine. Then, when you have done that, prove that yourself, or any other laboring man, or ordinary farmer, or mechanic is benefited ten cents in a year by 'protection,' not assertions, theories, and loose declamations."

"Well," said Mr. S., "I have no objection to supporting the government." "No," replied father, "I have not. I want burdens to be equal. I pay $100 tariff, and support my large family out of my wages and the wages of my wife and two sons. You pay about $30 and have a good property; your family are all producers. Is it just? I still want to know if I did not pay $8 bounty out of my pocket to American manufacturers? I want to know why I should do it, and what I get for it?" "I have never heard his queries answered. Can you do it?—C. B. in New York Times.

Important New Maps.

Two very interesting maps have just been published by the Italian Geographic Society. One of them is a map of the world, on Mercator's projection, showing the various arcs of latitude and longitude which have been measured up to the present date. Most of these are, of course, in Europe, across the center of which, from Valencia, in Ireland, to Ersk, on the border of Asia, extends the longest measured arc of latitude to the world. Almost bisecting this is the longest measured arc of meridian, which extends from England on the north coast of Norway to the mouth of the Danube, in Rumania. There are several shorter arcs of parallel across Europe, while in Asia, the only complete measurements are in India, where two lines cross the country from the Himalayas to Cape Comorin, and from Kurrachee to Calcutta. In America we have only the short measured arcs of meridian—one in the United States in Pennsylvania, and the classical one in Ecuador, running south from near where the Equator cuts the coast. These are the data on which geodesists base their calculations as to the exact figure of the earth, which they have found to be curiously irregular. The other map is one of Europe, and shows the progress made in the trigonometrical survey of the various countries. All Central and Western Europe, with Spain, Portugal and Italy is sealed with triangles; in Denmark, Norway and Sweden much remains to be done, while Russia and Turkey and Greece are almost entirely white. Of course, without minute surveying, accurate maps are impossible. —Pall Mall Gazette.

Another Comet Reported.

Dr. Hill, of Arlington, who discovered the comet reported in the Sun June 23d, states that he saw a comet with the naked eye on Thursday night, at 9:40 o'clock. Its position was thirty degrees above the horizon, and due west. That part of the firmament in which the comet appeared was somewhat obscured by clouds, but a rift in the clouds disclosed it to the eye. The tail appeared quite long and rather luminous. In position it was vertical, or perpendicular to the horizon. The comet discovered by Prof. Swift Wednesday night was in the northern heavens, moving westward. This comet is described as being very faint, and having no tail. If Dr. Hill's comet should prove to be distinct from Prof. Swift's, this will be the eighth comet discovered this year. —Baltimore Sun.
